HISTORY & ORIGIN OF PIZZA

1889 - Umberto I (1844-1900), King of Italy & his wife, Queen Margherita di Savoia (1851-1926) in Naples on holiday, called to their palace the most popular of the pizzaioli (pizza chef), Raffaele Esposito, to taste his specialties. He prepared three kinds of pizzas: one with pork fat, cheese & basil; one with garlic, oil & tomatoes; & another with mozzarella, basil & tomatoes (in the colors of the Italian flag). The Queen liked the last kind of pizza so much that she sent to the pizzaiolo a letter to thank him saying, "I assure you that the three kinds of pizza you have prepared were very delicious." Raffaele Esposito dedicated his specialty to the Queen & called it "Pizza Margherita." This pizza set the standard by which today's pizza evolved as well as firmly establishing Naples as the pizza capital of the world.
